Ideas for your child with Maths.

It is important to question children about their thinking, giving them time to respond. Below are some suggested questions that you may like to use at home to help develop children's mathematical thinking and learning. Keep up the great support in helping your children learn their Basic Facts.

- Can you tell me how you did that?
- Can you explain what you were thinking as you did that?
- Can you do that another way?
- Could you estimate how many you think it will be?
- How many other ways could you do that?
- How did you do that?
- Is there something you already know that will help you to do this?
- Is that what you thought would happen?
- What did you think of as you worked that out?
- What could we find out?
- What do you want to find out?
- What do you want to find out?
- What do you think might happen here?
- What can you tell me about what you have done?
